Canada Post hit by rotating strikes in Victoria, Edmonton, Windsor and Halifax

ctv.ca - The union representing 50,000 Canada Post employees has begun a series of rotating strikes.

The Canadian Union of Postal Workers says the 24-hour strikes began Monday at 12:01 a.m. local time in Victoria, Edmonton and Windsor, Ont., and at 1:01 a.m. in Halifax.

The union says mail will still be delivered in those cities, but will be delayed.

Normal mail delivery will continue in all other locations across the country.

CUPW filed a notice to strike last week after 10 months of negotiations to renew their collective agreements seemed to have failed. CUPW gave Canada Post until the end of the weekend (Oct. 20 and 21) to reach an agreement and avoid the union’s strike action.

Big sticking points for the union are wage increases and dealing with the increased workload, Lise-Lyne Gélineau, president of CUPW’s Montreal chapter told The Canadian Press. The latter has been due to the growing popularity of online shopping.

Two other issues include addressing precarious jobs and ensuring the health and safety of their letter carriers. Gélineau said the union doesn’t want to go on strike but that the ball was in the employer’s court now.

Canada Post spokesperson Jon Hamilton said they’ve tabled a “full offer” which includes “wage increases, improvement to benefits, job security, improved benefits and...

no concessions.”

But CUPW President Mike Palecek said the key issues of job security, an end to forced overtime, better health and safety measures and gender equality remained unresolved.

Megan Whitfield, president of CUPW’s Toronto chapter, called the Crown corporation’s last offer “garbage.”

“Canada Post has not taken negotiations seriously and they just continue to have this ‘wait and see’ (attitude) and the membership is just fed up,” she told CTVNews.
ca Sunday.

Some letter carriers have needed to work 12 to 16 hour shifts in order to finish their deliveries, Whitfield said. She added workers want the routes restructured to reflect recent changes to Canadians’ delivery needs.

“It’s unrealistic to expect a carrier to deliver at least 150 packages a day, plus mail, plus flyers and try and do it in an eight-hour day — it’s completely impossible,” Whitfield said.

Hamilton said that they value the relationship with the union and want to address their concern by committing to an annual volume review of each route so they can make adjustments.

With a strike in place, Canada Post told the Canadian Press it would notify their customers of any disruptions to service and said postal delivery would continue with possible “minor delays” including delivery of legalized cannabis purchased online.

The union has committed itself to continue delivering pension and social assistance cheques, as it has done in the past.

The CUPW has about 50,000 members in Canada, including 42,000 in urban areas and 8,000 in rural or suburban areas.
OREO SPIDER WEB COOKIE PIZZA

25 Halloween OREO Cookies, divided
1/4 cup butter or margarine, melted
1 ounce semi-sweet baking chocolate
2 cups thawed frozen whipped topping
1 (3.4 ounce) package vanilla instant pudding mix
1 cup cold milk
3 pieces black string licorice (10 inch), cut into 1-1/4-inch pieces
6 small round candies
1 tablespoon ready-to-spread frosting
2 tablespoons Halloween sprinkles
Add all ingredients to list

Heat oven to 350 degrees F.
Crush 22 cookies to form fine crumbs; mix with butter. Press onto bottom of 12-inch pizza pan sprayed with cooking spray. Bake 4 minutes; cool.

Meanwhile, microwave semi-sweet chocolate and 1/2 cup whipped topping in microwaveable bowl on high 30 to 40 seconds or until chocolate is completely melted and mixture is well blended, stirring after 30 seconds. Cool slightly.
Beat pudding mix and milk in medium bowl with whisk 2 minutes (pudding will be thick). Stir in remaining whipped topping; spread onto crust to within 1/2 inch of edge.
Spoon chocolate mixture into resealable plastic bag; snip off small piece from one bottom corner of bag. Use to drizzle chocolate mixture in spiral motion over pizza. Gently drag toothpick through lines to resemble spider’s web. Refrigerate 1 hour.
Meanwhile, decorate remaining cookies with licorice pieces and candies as shown in photo, using frosting to secure pieces to cookies.
Place decorated cookies on pizza just before serving. Garnish with sprinkles.

44. Upon entering the little country store, the stranger noticed a sign saying “DANGER! BEWARE OF DOG!” posted on the glass door. Inside he noticed a harmless old hound dog asleep on the floor beside the cash register.
45. He asked the store manager, “Is THAT the dog folks are supposed to beware of?”
46. “Yep, that’s him,” he replied.
47. The stranger couldn’t help but be amused.
48. “That certainly doesn’t look like a dangerous dog to me. Why in the world would you post that sign?”
49. “Because,” the owner replied, “before I posted that sign, people kept tripping over him.”
A class professor was giving a lecture on company slogans and was asking his students if they were familiar with them.

"Joe," he asked, "which company has the slogan, 'come fly the friendly skies'?

Joe answered the correct airline.

"Brenda, can you tell me which company has the slogan, "Don't leave home without it"?

Brenda answered the correct credit card company with no difficulty.

"Now John, Tell me which company bears the slogan, 'Just do it'?

And John answered, "Mom...."

A man was reading the paper when an ad caught his eye. It loudly announced, "$500 Porsche! New!" The man thought that it was very unusual to sell a Porsche for $500, and he thought it might be a joke, but he said to himself, "it's worth a shot."

So he went to the lady's house who was selling the Porsche and she led him into the garage. Sure enough, there was an almost brand new Porsche. "Wow!" the man said, "Can I take it for a test drive?"

"Sure," answered the lady. Unlike what he expected, the man found that the car ran perfectly.

When he got back to the lady's house, he asked her, "Why are you selling me this great Porsche for only $500?"

Then the lady replied with a laugh, "My husband just ran off with his secretary, and he told me, 'You can have the house and the furniture, just sell my Porsche and send me the money.'"
